KETTERING — Directors of Ohio's technology-supporting Edison Centers will recognize E-Technologies Group, a West Chester engineering and information technology company, for its work in support of Ohio manufacturers, the Edison Materials Technology Center said.

The directors will present the Edison Center Award to E-Technologies Group during a Feb. 17 ceremony at the Ohio Statehouse in Columbus. E-Technologies has been working with Kettering-based EMTEC to hire students to expand the company's work in advancing instrumentation, controls and electronics development in support of manufacturers' needs for new process automation technology, EMTEC officials said.

Inc. magazine has recognized E-Technologies Group as one of the magazine's top 50 private companies in the category of engineering. The company was founded in 1993.
