

Area flavoring company on 'How It's Made' today

By Mandy Gambrell, Staff Writer

9:23 AM Friday, June 4, 2010

CINCINNATI — Flavor Systems International, a food and beverage flavoring company in Cincinnati, will be featured on the television show "How It's Made."

The episode is scheduled to air on the Science channel at 9 p.m. today, June 4. It will also feature the making of Grapples, dog sleds and athletic shoes.

It will air again at midnight and 4 a.m. Saturday.

Flavor Systems International is located at 9950 Commerce Park Drive. Its website is www.flavorsystems.com.

Recently, the Food Network filmed and aired an episode recorded at Terry's Turf Club, also in Cincinnati. The next airing of the episode entitled, "Grilled, Smoked and Sauced" is scheduled for 9 p.m. June 11, according to www.terrysturfclub.com.

Last year, Dave Rife, the executive of White Castle restaurants, was commissioned by the CBS reality television show, "Undercover Boss" to work at multiple White Castle restaurants for 10 days in the month of June 2009. He was seen in the episode that aired in March working at the Hamilton location on High Street.

Find this article at:

<http://www.journal-news.com/news/hamilton-news/area-flavoring-company-on-how-its-made-today-745975.html>

